

Charter-in-the-Workplace

The Villages Charter School (VCS) is identified as "a Charter School in the Workplace" and operated as a Florida not-for-profit corporation. Established through Florida law, charter schools in the workplace are public charter schools with the ability to target a specific student population. Charter schools are public schools of choice. VCS exists as a part of the "Choice" program defined by the Florida Department of Education (see 1002.33).

Students are eligible to attend The Villages Charter School in a very unique way. Unlike traditional schools where enrollment eligibility is based upon where the students live, VCS students become eligible based upon their parent's employment. There are approximately 450 businesses affiliated in one of the four categories of enrollment.

- Category I: Businesses directly part of the developer's suite of companies.
- Category II: Businesses that are direct sub-contractors to the developer.
- Category III: Businesses that lease directly or own business site directly from The Villages.
- Category IV: Businesses that own a permanent business site purchased from a non-Villages entity or lease from a non-Villages entity within The Villages.
